About

The Morris County Public Safety Training Academy provides cutting-edge professional training for fire, law enforcement, corrections and first aid squad personnel, both salaried and volunteer. The Academy campus encompasses technologically advanced lecture halls and specialty classrooms including a state-of-the-art Life Safety Complex for fire protection training.

Project Requirements

Chief Dan Colucci, Director of the Public Safety Training Academy is committed to providing the highest level of training to all the major uniformed services of Morris County, New Jersey. He realized that with an ever-expanding roster of visiting trainers and regular staff, class time is best spent on actually training, rather than on lecturers learning a different AV system every time they enter a new classroom. The system he sought needed to be not only consistent throughout the campus, but intuitive and user friendly. Presenters should require only a disk-on-key instead of backup presentation equipment or transparencies

Solution

After performing extensive due diligence, Chief Colucci purchased a Tecom TecPodium All-in-One Multimedia Lectern to try in one of his lecture halls. The TecPodium quickly won over the academy's staff and visiting lecturers by allowing them to quickly get down to the training that is essential to protecting the well being of the residents of Morris County.

The system facilitated the training experience so well that Chief Colucci deployed Tecom's fully integrated multimedia systems throughout the campus.

Comments

"I sought out the most up-to-date equipment available to install in our new facilities," states Chief Colucci. "Our instructors have quickly adapted to the ease of use, most times with no instruction. Even a novice instructor looks like a seasoned professional as the TecPodium makes transitions among types of presentation systems seamless and easy. The TecPodium met and exceeded all my expectations."
